

SENG2050 – Assignment 3 (RGMS)

Final Report

Specification Changes

It was decided that we will reduce the number of user types down to just general users with an IsAdmin Boolean to signal whether they are an admin. Groups were decided to have a single coordinator.

To remove the requirement of using email services to notify users, it was decided that users would have their accounts created when they register, but have an IsActive Boolean set to false until an Administrator activated their account.

Following from this decision to use internal notifications to activate users, it was decided to remove the requirement to allow administrator users to create users in the system since users can create their own accounts and wait for administrators to activate them.

Due to time constraints, we were unable to implement a facility to create a discussion thread for meetings. Following from this, we did not implement functionality to allow users to decline from meetings and leave a thread comment indicating their declination.
